

Leiden University Medical Center
Section Genome Diagnostics, Department of Clinical Genetics

GIVE THIS SECTION TO PATIENT

INFORMATION FOR PATIENTS ABOUT SECONDARY USE OF BODY MATERIALS

When your body material has been sent by your healthcare provider to the Genome Diagnostics Laboratory at LUMC, it may be used for research purposes. LUMC only conducts research if we have your permission to do so. Only in very specific cases can research be done for which we do not have to ask your permission (for information: see <https://edu.nl/edpkw>). You may object to this type of research, and for example the anonymous discussion of medical data in education. For more information on this see <https://edu.nl/c6bhg>.

In addition, your DNA data are stored under a code in a database used to improve our diagnostics. This database is only accessible to employees of the genetic laboratories at university hospitals in the Netherlands. More information, including the possibility to object, can be found here <https://edu.nl/d36b9>.

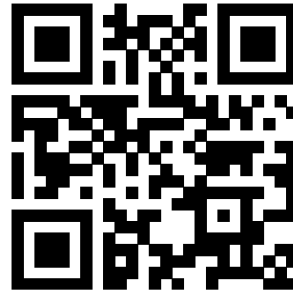

For your convenience, the links used are shown below as QR codes

edu.nl/edpkw

edu.nl/c6bhg

edu.nl/d36b9